Chris is an intellectual property litigator and patent prosecutor with experience in a diverse array of technologies.

As an IP litigator, Chris represents clients in patent, trademark, and trade secret disputes. Chris is adept at providing practical, pragmatic legal advice in complex matters. His experience includes Hatch-Waxman ANDA disputes, life sciences patent cases, computer-related technology cases, and contested proceedings before the Patent Trial and Appeal Board.

Chris assists clients in obtaining worldwide patent protection and provides strategic management of complex patent portfolios. He has prosecuted patents in a wide range of technologies within the fields of chemistry and biotechnology, including:

- Cell culture methods (e.g., stem cell culture methods)
- Dialysis systems, devices, and methods
- Ion gauges
- Membranes and filtration technologies
- Natural product synthesis in plants and other hosts
- Polymer chemistry
- Transgenic mammals and plants
- Treatment and detection of disease states
- Vaccines and vaccine production

As a trusted counselor and advisor, clients rely on Chris to provide opinions regarding patent validity/invalidity and to conduct freedom-to-operate analyses.
